Waterford's Second Street School, formerly Colored School A, Jefferson District, was used until 1957. The site is significant to black history.

GLIMPSES OF AREA'S TIES TO BLACK HISTORY

Students in a living history program use these books and desks, right, to better understand the experience of those who attended the school. Since 1984, more than 30,000 students have gone through the program. Karen White, below, president of the Afro-American Historical Association of Fauquier County, gives a tour of the group's museum.
